FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Green Guestbook Digital Sign-In to be Used by Elvis Visitors

The Smithsonian Institution Traveling Exhibition Service, Elvis at 21 has new, exciting networking feature

Green Guestbook has just joined the tour of Elvis at 21: Photographs by Alfred Wertheimer, one of the newest Smithsonian traveling exhibits. A Green Guestbook records visitor information and collects comments digitally, on a touchscreen, in real time. It also offers the opportunity to send a comment about the experience directly to the Social Networking page of the visitor.

“SITES truly believes our collaborative efforts with Green Guestbook will establish a new methodology for gathering information and exploding social networking possibilities far beyond current trends.” – Steven Arnold, Director of Information Technology, SITES

Green Guestbook helps any business, public site or event quickly learn more about the public and helps to serve them better by encouraging digital communication. “It saves staff time, money and trees when we encourage people to expect email instead of envelopes,” says Green Guestbook President and Inventor, Ellie Carlson.

Green Guestbook is a web-based company with offices in Chicago, Illinois. For further information please contact ellie@greenguestbook.com or phone 312.771.2400.
